The AcE Project Tracker: Why was it created?

- To organize our work
 - Assigning tasks
 - Notifying key collaborators of task creation, their role, and task completion
 - Providing reminders
 - Maintaining key dates
- To preserve record of key communications
 - Outlook plugin
- To act as permanent institutional memory

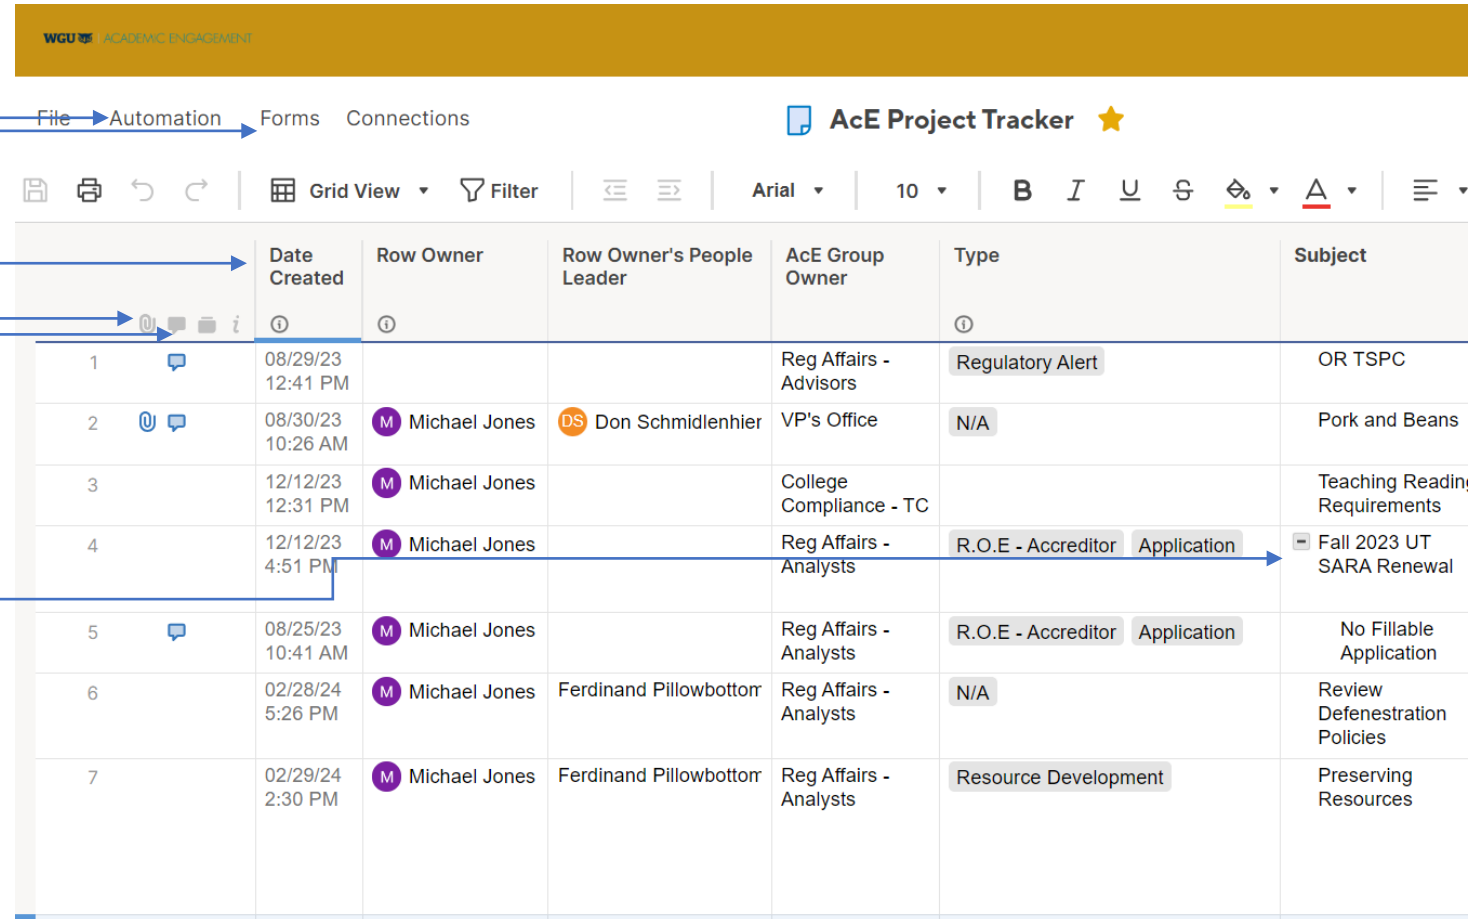

The AcE Project Tracker: Choosing Your Tool

- A system like this requires buy-in from users. Use the most universally familiar tool for your users that requires the least effort and maintenance.
 - Salesforce – Ideal but for the complexity of designing and maintaining an org.
 - Excel – It's a possibility, but slightly less user-friendly for our purposes.
 - Smartsheet – Similar to Excel, but with a convenient Outlook plugin.

The AcE Project Tracker: Smartsheet Features

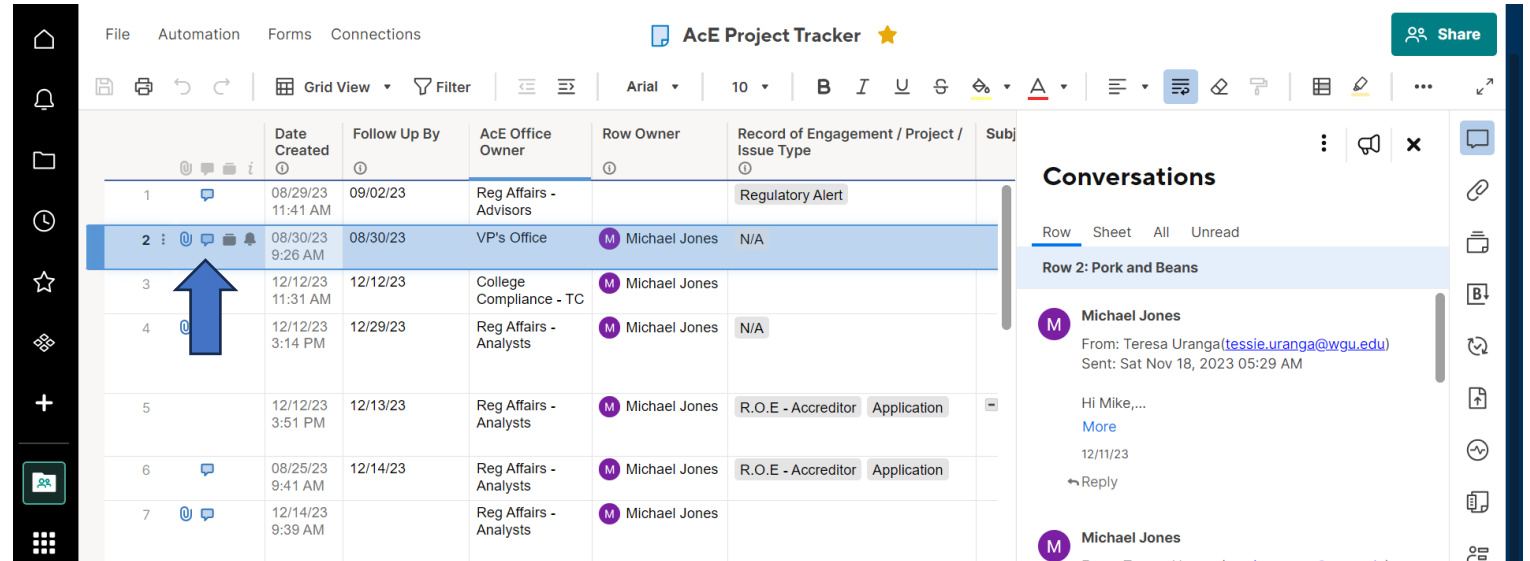

- Automation
- Forms
- Columns
- Attachments

- Collapsible, grouped rows
- A Plugin for Outlook

- AcE Operating Initiative –This column is a dropdown list with our department initiatives to try to make us justify the project on the row.
- Follow Up By - We've got an automation set to the date in this column that emails a reminder to the Row Owner and AcE Collaborators the day before and every day after until the Completed box is checked.
- Completion Date - This date is included for documentation.
- Completed checkbox – A checkbox on each row incentivizes task completion, end the reminder emails, and archives completed rows.

The AcE Project Tracker: Automations

The smartsheet has five automated workflows:

- Alert Row Owner When New Row is Added – When a row is added, it emails the contact in the Row Owner column to let the contact know they have been given a new task.
- Alert Concerned Parties When New Row is Added – When a row is added, it emails the contact in the Row Owner’s People Leader, and the AcE Collaborators columns to alert them that they’ve been assigned to support the row owner in completion of the task on the row.
- Follow-Up Reminder Workflow – Three days before the date recorded in the Follow Up By column, and every day thereafter until the completed checkbox is clicked, this workflow emails the Row Owner and AcE Collaborators to remind them.
- Archive – When the box in the Completed column is checked it moves the row from the AcE Project Tracker smartsheet to the AcE Project Tracker Archive smartsheet.
- Alert Concerned Parties When a Row is Archived – When a row is archived, this workflow emails the Row Owner, the Row Owner’s People Leader, and the AcE Collaborators to inform them.

Identifying Trends

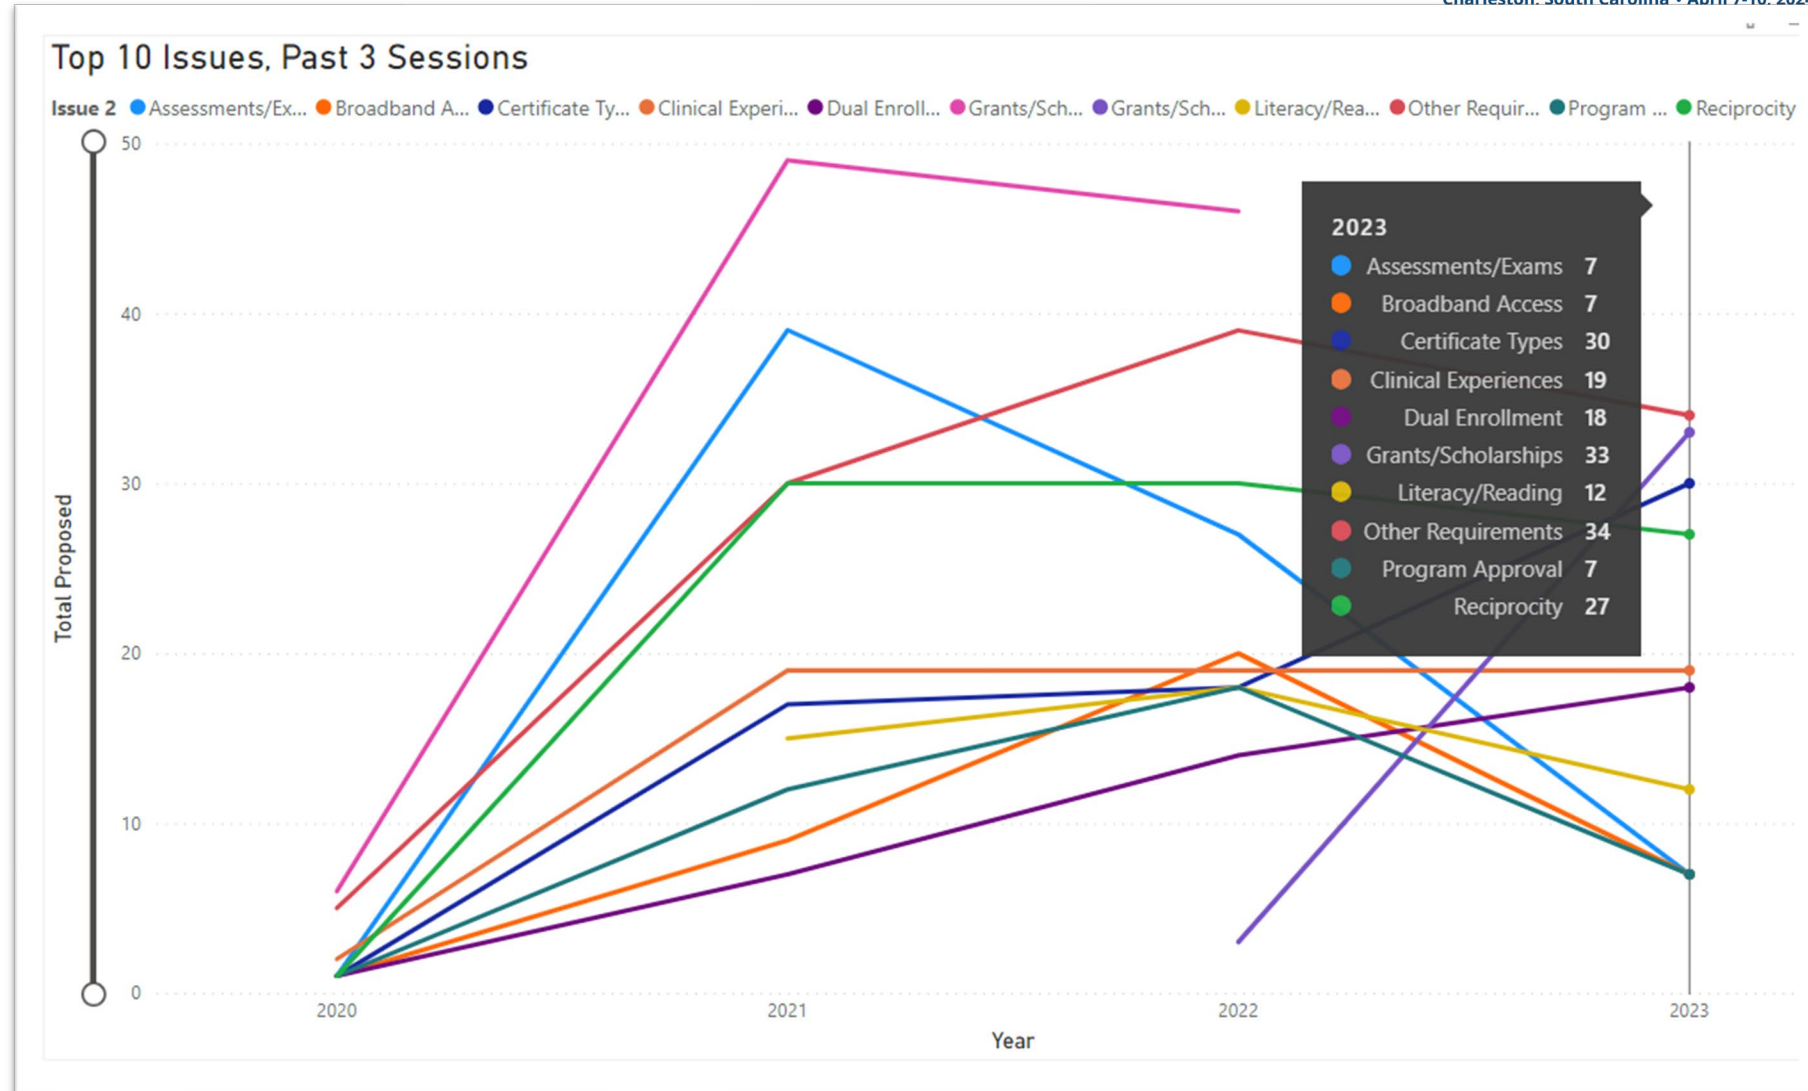

Can show cumulative data Trends/totals over the past or current year

- Historical, single-issue trends
- Answers, "How have priorities shifted?"

3-Year Trends

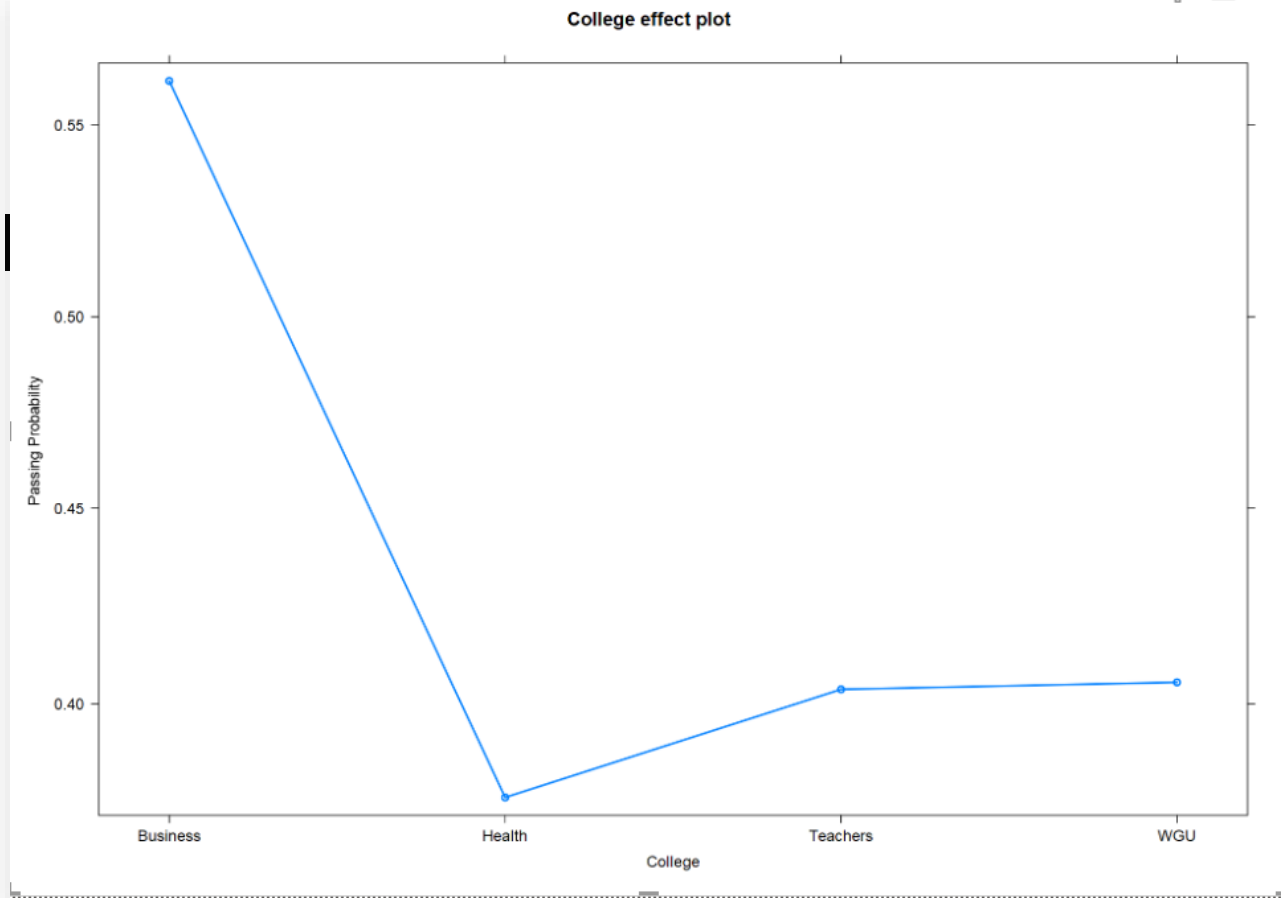

- Track historical and current trends over multiple years
- Interactive:
 - Slide over points for additional details

Predictive Analysis

- Historical data can inform models to predict the odds of a bill passing
- Filters can help narrow down subject matter, regions, party, etc.
- “R”, a free program, can integrate statistical analysis into Power BI visuals

Probability of a Bill Passing, by College

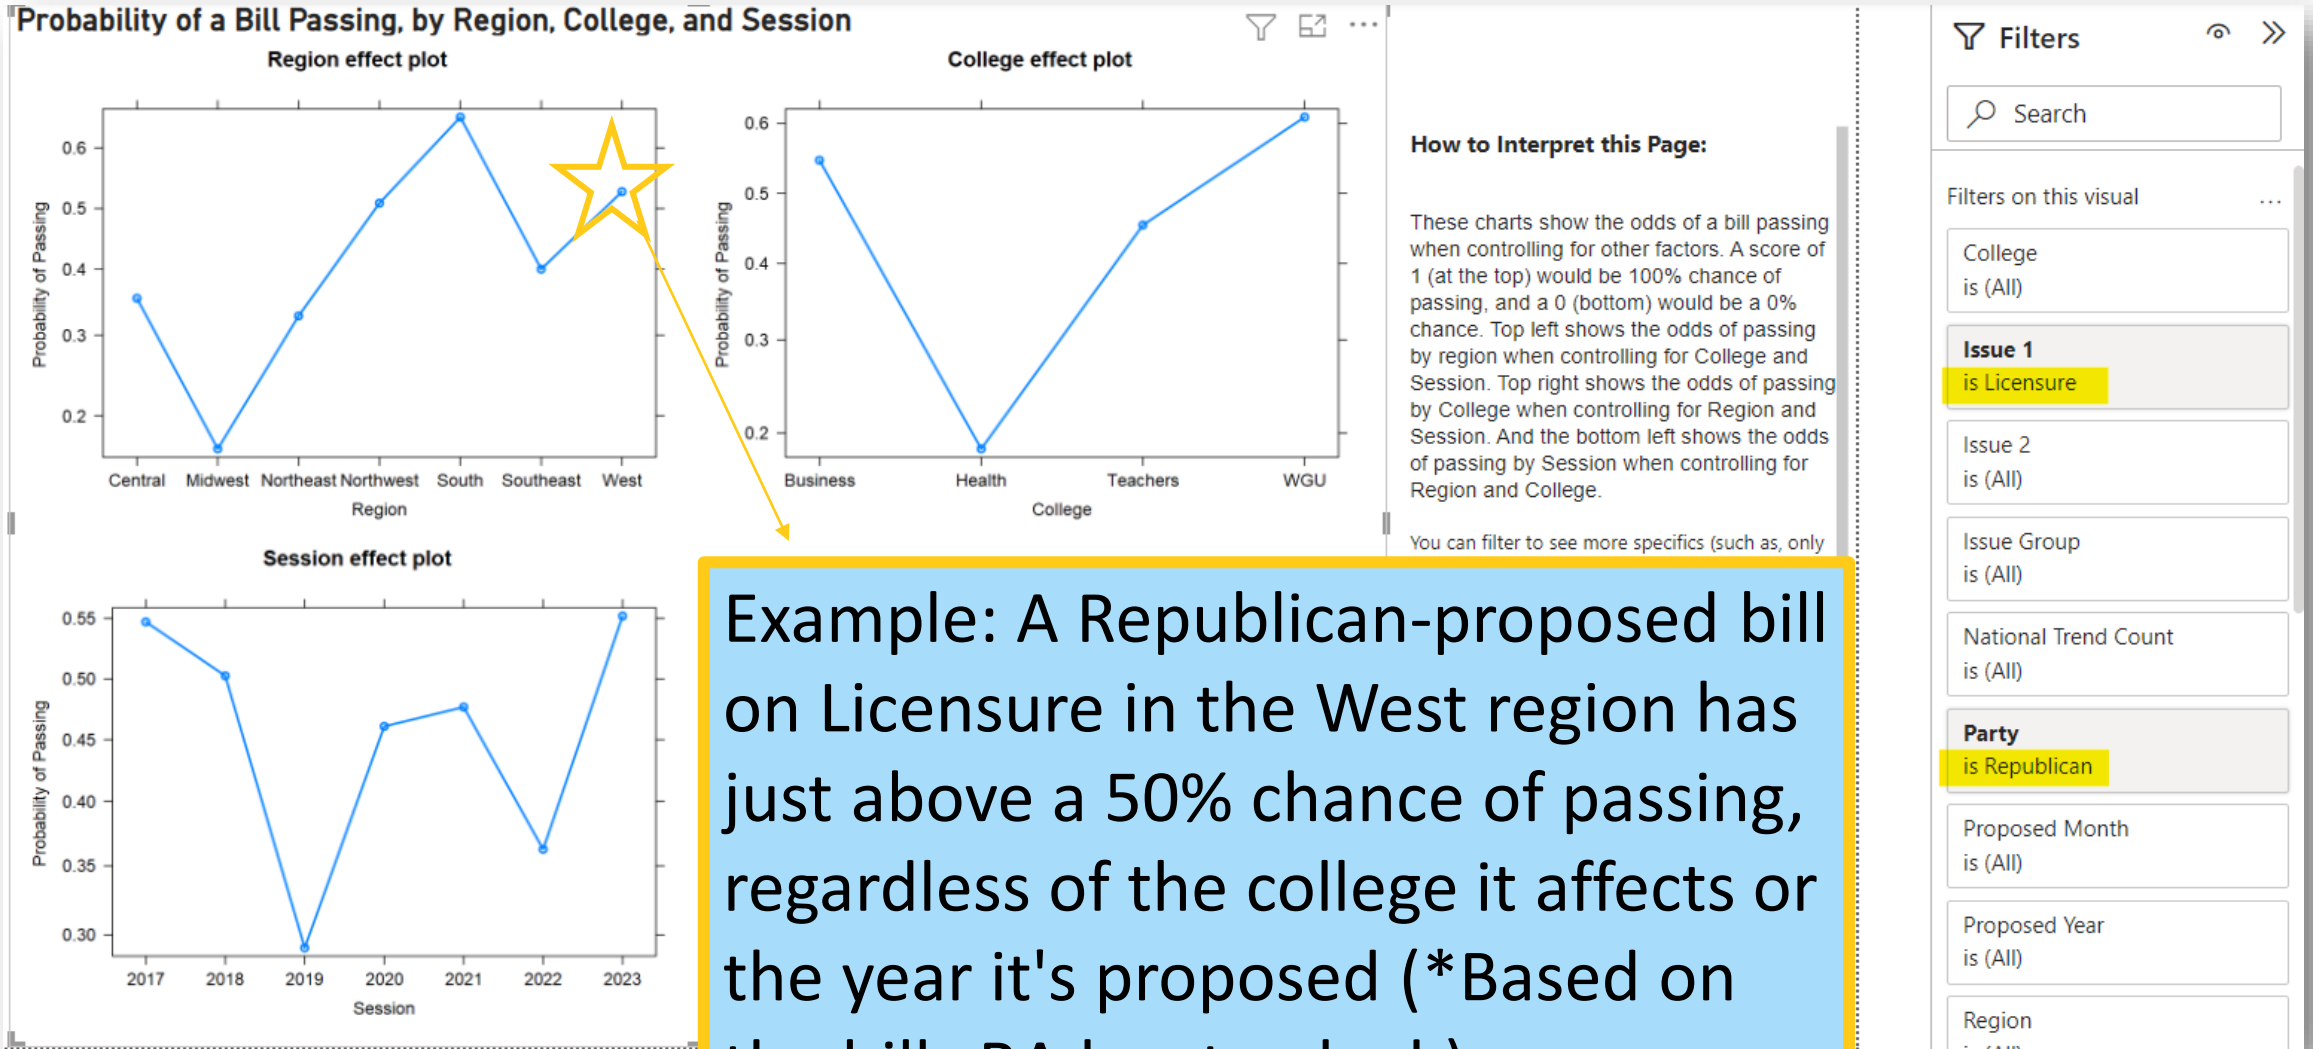

How to Use This Page:

This chart shows the odds of a bill passing by college when not controlling for other factors. A score of 1 (at the top) would be 100% chance of passing, and a 0 (bottom) would be 0% chance.

For this odds of a bill in question, you can filter to see more specifics (such as, only show "Licensure" "Reciprocity" bills proposed by "Democrats").

Keep in mind this isn't a perfect formula, but should provide some insight using our historical data.

Predictive Analysis

Example: A Republican-proposed bill on Licensure in the West region has just above a 50% chance of passing, regardless of the college it affects or the year it's proposed (*Based on the bills RA has tracked.)
